

18-YEAR-OLD YOUTH STARTS WELL IN CRIME

Paroled Morganza Inmate Steals Horse and Shoots Up Man

SENT BACK TO SCHOOL

Armed With Revolver, 92 Cartridges and Murderous Knife

Eighteen years old; arrested on a charge of larceny and committed to the Industrial Training School at Morganza; served two years there and released on parole two months ago; stole a horse; shot and wounded a man in a row; rearrested with a revolver, 92 cartridges and a wicked looking knife in his possession; recommitted to Morganza for violating provisions of parole.

This is the career of David Nutting of Charleroi who was apprehended by Chief of Police Albright and his force, with the assistance of State Probation Officer Robert Elliott of the Industrial School at Morganza Monday evening. Young Nutting was taken back to Morganza early this morning by Officer Elliott.

When young Nutting became involved in the shooting affray Saturday night, in which his stepfather, John Dessing, was shot while abusing his wife—Nutting's mother—the officials of Morganza were after him for violating his parole in the commission of other offenses. It appears that some two weeks ago Nutting with Herbert Pegg, a lad 14 or 15 years old, who had also been paroled by the juvenile court for previous offenses, stole a horse belonging to John B. Michener of Charleroi. The animal was stabled near the garbage furnace on the Maple Creek road, and young Pegg, who had worked for Mr. Michener the previous day, in company with Nutting went to the stable on a Saturday night hitched up the horse to a buckboard wagon, and drove off on a jaunt. The horse was turned loose and abandoned at Finleyville, where it was recovered, after Mr. Michener had reported his loss to the district attorney and Detective William McCleary had been put on the trail.

Suspecting the two boys Mr. Michener swore out a warrant for their arrest, but before they were served young Pegg returned to his home, and admitted the theft of the horse to Mr. Michener. In the meantime young Nutting returned home in company with a friend whose name is not learned, but who was also out of Morganza on parole. It is believed that the two boys contemplated starting out on a tramp, for Nutting purchased a new 32-calibre revolver and 100 cartridges.

Incidentally the Saturday night shooting transpired. Young Nutting and his friend went to the latter's home on Luella avenue Saturday night where they found Nutting's stepfather, John Dessing, who is said to have come home drunk, abusing his mother. Taking a hand in the affair Nutting fired two shots at Dessing wounding him severely and then he and his companion fled. It was stated by Mrs. Dessing that the shots were fired by the stranger, but

Arrested Bad Crowd

Monesen Police Put Stop to Badger Game at End of Bridge

Saturday night following numerous complaints, the police of Monessen arrested seven negroes, three women and four men at Wireton, all stated to belong to one of the most notorious gangs of panhandlers and holdups in the valley. Their method was to send a woman to accost an "easy mark" and try to get his wealth, the men standing in the background ready to attack the victim if he gave an alarm. At the police station most of the prisoners posted forfeits. A Slav identified a woman entered on the books as "Miss Philadelphia" as the person who had separated him from $21.00 in cash and several valuable papers. His pewter was returned on his promise not to enter a complaint.

G. O. P. CARRIES MAINE

Republican Governor Elected by Over 3,000 Plurality

SUITS LOCAL PARTISANS

Maine turned back to the Republican column in the State election held there Monday, William T. Haines of Waterville being elected Governor over Governor Frederick W. Plaisted, his Democratic opponent, who sought a second term, while the Republicans regained one of the two Congressional districts lost to the Democrats two years ago.

The new Legislature is expected to have a small Republican majority, although returns are not sufficient to show whether former Congressman Edwin C. Burleigh, Republican, or Senator Obadiah Gardner, Democrat, will be chosen to the United States Senate for the term beginning next March.

Returns for Governor from 535 out of 634 election districts gave Haines, Republican, 589,187; Plaisted, Democrat, 585,437.

These returns show a Republican gain of 9 per cent and a Democratic loss of 9 per cent. If the same percentage is maintained throughout the State, Haines' election is indicated by about 3,750 plurality, compared with 8,660 given Plaisted in 1910.

The Congressmen elected are: First district, Asher C. Hinds of Portland, Republican; Second district, D. J. McGillicuddy of Lewiston, Democrat; Third district, Forest Goodwin of Skowhegan, Republican; Fourth district, Frank E. Guernsey of Dover, Republican. Hinds, McGillicuddy and Guernsey were re-elected.

HEBREW NEW YEAR COMES THIS WEEK

Year 5657 Will be Ushered in at Sundown Wednesday With Religious Services—Local Services in Bank of Charleroi Hall

The year, 5673, according to the ancient Hebrew calendar, will be ushered in at sundown on Wednesday. The season will be fittingly observed by local Hebrews, of which Charleroi has a large community. The orthodox branch will have services in the Bank of Charleroi Hall as has been their usual custom, while those who belong to the reformed element usually go to Pittsburgh or other points which have places of worship.

The two-day observance of Rosh Ha-Shannah or New Year, is one of the two most important holy days in the Hebrew calendar. Yom Kippur the Day of Atonement, concludes the ten penitential days of which Rosh Ha-Shannah is the beginning. The Day of Atonement is the most important day in the calendar.

ANSWER FILED IN FERRY FIGHT

Deny Claim of Right to Operate Speers Business Exclusively

In the ferry fight between Van L. Speers and Leslie Woodward and Mark Bamford over the operation of ferries over the Monongahela river between Belle Vernon and Speers the defendants, Messrs Woodward and Bamford have filed their answer to Mr. Speers' bill in court at Washington. They deny that the lease under which the plaintiff operates a ferry gives him an exclusive right to operate at the point where the ferry is being operated. They admit that on July 22, 1912 they established a ferry and that with the exception of a few days when they were restrained by injunction they have been conducting a general ferry business.

On the Fayette county side they say their landing place is a few feet south of the plaintiff's landing place and on the Washington county side is a few feet north of the plaintiff's landing. It is denied though that they are in any manner interfering with the plaintiff in the operation of his ferry. They deny that under the charter of the Belle Vernon Bridge company the plaintiff had a right to operate a ferry at that point in question.

NEW ARMORY SITE IS READY

Specifications are expected in a few days at Monongahela for the excavation of the new armory building to be erected there by State aid. The engineers were there last week and made a complete survey of the property as well as its elevations and will prepare such plans and specifications as will be necessary to make the site available for the successful contractor to begin work on the building. This preliminary work is not expected to delay the building to any extent as the Armory Board will have to adopt the plans for this building first, and this out of the way bids will be asked from several contracting firms familiar with this class of work.

NIGHT SCHOOL OPEN TO ALL

Old and Young Can Attend Evening Sessions in Pittsburg

Pittsburg is promised this winter the most extensive system of free evening schools in its history. Fifteen elementary schools are to be opened throughout the city, and in addition two evening high schools—one in the central city and one on the Northside. No entrance examination will be required for the elementary schools and the only age limit will be that applicants must be over 14. Fathers, brothers and sons may learn shop-work in joinery and cabinet making, wood turning and machine work; mothers, sisters and daughters may learn the newest methods in cooking with some knowledge of the chemistry of foods that may help in the battle against the high cost of living, while sewing and household art will be included in that course. Penmanship, commercial arithmetic and spelling may also be improved by courses at the elementary schools, while in the high schools shorthand, typewriting and bookkeeping will be taught.

Nor do these general courses exhaust the ambitious program. There will be courses in English for the foreign-born and in foreign languages for the English-speaking. Civil service aspirants can prepare for the examinations. In fact, the entire system has been devised to meet the practical needs of the people.

Director J. M. Berkey, who is in charge of the special schools and extension work, will have charge of these night schools.

NOVEL KICK ON TROLLEY LINE

Novel objections to an application for the extension of a charter will be laid before Corporation Clerk Whitworth of the State Department this week in Harrisburg in a hearing on the application of the Washington Traction company for permission to lay tracks for the operation of an extension of its lines in Washington. The proposed new line runs close to Washington and Jefferson colleges, and the officials of the institution object alleging that trolley cars running by will cause vibrations that will interfere with the operation of delicate instruments used in scientific research work in the college and render them practically useless.

The State Highway Department joins in the objection on the ground that the proposed line would occupy space on State roads for which permission has not been obtained from the department as required by law. Attorneys for both sides will be heard.

BULL MOOSERS NAME ASSEMBLY CANDIDATES

Lodgeman Is Surprised

Brother Members Gather to Welcome Him Home From Abroad

After the adjournment of lodge Monday night, Regent Otto Dorbritz and his staff of officers and members of Charleroi Council 1210, Royal Arcanum, repaired to the residence of their brother member, Joseph Allsopp, at 711 Washington avenue. The object of the visit was to surprise him on his 38th birthday and to congratulate him on his safe return from Europe, where he visited during the summer. They were given a hearty and royal welcome, and were entertained with card games, music, and a tasty luncheon. Mr. Allsopp is a past regent of the council, and greatly appreciated the visit of his fellow lodgemen.

Among those present were Otto Dorbritz, Chas. Feste, Gus Brickner, Elmer Sellers, J. Fries, J. B. Schaffer, R. O. Vetter, Wm. Davis, John McDonald, Jos. Davenport, Theo. Theriotke, Geo. W. Risbeck, J. Albright, John Theriotke and Joseph Schoener.

WEST PENN PEOPLE ACTIVE

Yough Division May be Extended to West Newton

WORK AT UNIONTOWN

Recent activities of the West Penn Railways company, evinced in acquisition of new properties and the extension of lines are said to indicate the trolley system soon may become one of the largest in the United States. Holdings representing thousands of dollars recently have been acquired and the latest reports of activities are that plans are almost complete for an extension to West Newton. Contract has been awarded and construction begun on the 2-mile extension of the Phillips line to Uniontown.

According to reports from West Newton last week a party of surveyors is locating a line on the West Penn trunk from Hunker to West Newton. It is reported that connection will be made with the Yough division at Scott Haven and that it is a part of the extension decided upon two years ago.

G. W. Gates & Company of Fairchance, have been awarded the contract for the Phillips extension to Uniontown. Bond for $6,000 has been filed by the West Penn Company in the condemnation proceeding.

"Accredited Party Representatives" Make Up the Slate

CHARLEROI IS HONORED

Theodore J. Allen is One of the Nominees Chose

The car has joined and the Washington party, according to the Washington Observer, will have put a full Legislative ticket in the field. The Observer states in this morning's issues "the accredited representatives of the party in this county" have certified to the names of a roster of candidates for Assembly and they will be placed on the Washington or Roosevelt ticket. The candidates selected for Assembly are:

Theodore J. Allen, Charleroi.
David A. McCalmont, Robinson township.

T. B. H. Brownlee, Washington. Just who these accredited representatives of the Washington party in the county are, the Observer does not state. It is probable, however, that former Congressman E. F. Acheson has a hand in their selection, and that he will be the guiding spirit of the campaign. Since his retirement from active newspaper work with the Observer Publishing company, he has been "lying low," and there is nothing to indicate on the surface just what part he proposes to play in this campaign. His well known opposition to the Republican organization in the State and county, as well as his profound political knowledge of State and county politics are qualities that will hardly permit him to remain passive in this campaign.

All three of the candidates selected for the Assembly on the Washington ticket are good men. Theodore J. Allen of Charleroi is a well known citizen and civil engineer and is highly respected. David A. McCalmont is a representative farmer of the northern part of the county, and T. B. H. Brownlee is a well known Washington citizen, who was chairman of the Keystone county committee two years ago. He is somewhat in the limelight by being a defendant on the attempted proceedings instituted by Hon. Edward Callaghan of Charleroi, on a charge of conspiracy and treason for, as Mr. Callaghan alleges, depriving the latter of his rights as a citizen in preventing his name from appearing on the official ballot as a Democratic candidate for sheriff.

It is well known that it was the intention to have the Roosevelt party in the county endorse the Republican candidate for Congress in the district—Hon. Charles Matthews—and the Republican candidates for Assembly, just as they have been endorsed in many of the other counties of the State, where there is a strong Roosevelt sentiment. With most of the Roosevelt followers, who are Republicans there is no resentment against the rest of the Republican ticket, and for that reason the endorsement of the other candidates has been readily effected in the most of the districts. That this procedure

THE HILL CURB MARKET

It is to be hoped that the curb

market to be established on the hill

district of Charleroi will be as successful as the down town market.

While it may not reach the same pro-

portions, it can in a smaller way,

serve the same purpose. Not only

can the hill curb market be successful in the place selected, but other

spots convenient to the marketing

public can also be selected from time

to time.

While this additional market is

largely a matter of experiment, it

can be tried out in various ways until the right system is finally established. The one thing needful is to get the producer and consumer together, and when this is done, the details of the best means of distribution will gradually adjust themselves. The curb market idea has

opened up a wide range of opportunities for many people to earn

some money by gardening and this

can be much or little as facilities

offer.

It is found everywhere that nothing that is raised on the farm need

be wasted, if only it can be gotten to

the people who have the money to pay for it and who want it. There

is money to be made by young and

old alike in gardening and Charleroi

has the market in which to sell any-

thing in this line.

AS OTHERS SEE HIM.

The action of William Flinn, the

accepted leader of the Roosevelt

forces in Pennsylvania, in refusing

to withdraw the Roosevelt electors

from the Republican ticket in this

State is regarded outside the State as

an act of petty political trickery which is alienating thousands of independent

Republicans from the cause of the Progressives. Speaking of these de-

picable tactics of Flinn, the Buffalo Express says:

The Washington party of Pennsylvania, which, be it known, is the

Bull Moose, has not appeared in any

especially favorable light since it

accepted Bill Flinn as leader, sponsor and guardian. The course of the

Pittsburg contractor-boss with the

consent of his followers, in delaying,

if not actually refusing, to withdraw

the Roosevelt electors from the Republican ticket lays the third-term

fraud open to the severest criticism.

With the precedent of the appropriation by the Progressives of the Republican name for their ticket in

California, it is reasonable to sup-

pose that a similar course will be

attempted in the Republic of Pennsylvania. Flinn evidently is going to the last ditch to retain on the Republican ticket the names of the 30

out of 38 electors who favor Roosevelt, unless the Republican party will

indorse his State ticket. In that

case, he would be glad to consent.

In fact, it is Flinn's plan to adopt

the organization of the Republican party. This is shown in his over-

tures to Republican Congress and

Assembly candidates.

An independent Republican who

is supporting Roosevelt as a matter

of principle cannot approve of

Flinn's methods. If political trick-

ery must be resorted to in a so-called battle for reform, then it is simply a matter of there being small

choice in rotten apples. Mr. Flinn's

course is but a fair test of his real

motives.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The unusual spectacle was witnessed on Fifth street yesterday of a

small boy with a handful of salt in

a scrap of newspaper chasing up and

down with the avowed purpose of

catching sparrows. The little lad,

who was just in the first stages of

unsophisticated credulity was a victim of the practical jokes which his

elders see fit to inflict upon him and

his kind from time to time. He had

been told that the way to catch birds

was to put salt on their tails, and he

was endeavoring to carry out this

simple but somehow ineffective plan.

Approaching as parrow he would

grasp a pinch of salt in his thumb

and forefinger, only to be disappointed

as the bird flew off.

"Why don't you catch them?" he

was asked.

"I can't blame things fly off before

I can get the salt on them," he ex-

claimed, at times almost ready to

cry with vexation over his failure.

"That is but another of the demonstrations that the child is father

to the man," remarked a by-stander.

"That boy's credulity is no more un-

usual than that of a lot of his elders

in this town—I mean the men who

have tried to catch the Goddess of

Fortune by sprinkling salt on the

train of her robes in the way of buying blue sky stocks in wild cat

projects. I could name a round dozen

right now who have sprinkled salt

like this boy in just such impossible propositions, and they have no more

to show for their chase than the little lad there. Unlimited credulity is not a quality of the little child by any

means."

"I am somewhat amused over the

replies parents give when I ask

them the cause of the delinquency of

their children," said Robert Elliott,

State probation officer of the Industrial Training school at Morgantza,

who was in town Monday, looking

after some of the inmates who had

been committed to our institution is

the question to the parent?

"What in your opinion is the cause of delinquency?"

"Invariably the answer will be:

"He (or she) would go in bad

company in spite of all I could do."

"This answer is always given,

even by the most broadest and de-

praved parents. It simply goes to show that the condition is univer-

sally recognized and that the only

salvation for society is not to have

any bad company in any community

to lead children and elders astray."

Climate and the Color of Cities.

It is estimated by meteorologists that the heat irradiated constantly in the atmosphere by the combustion of carbon modifies little by little the climate of cities and surrounding districts. It is said that 15,000,000 tons of carbon is the average yearly weight burned in cities the size of London and New York. It is also pointed out that the color of cities is changed according to the amount of carbon burned. Confirmation of these facts is offered in historical description of cities. Paris being referred to by one historian of ancient times as a "city of red," while to this day certain Italian cities are described as "violet." Meteorologists prophesy that when our west is as thickly settled as central Europe our clear sweep of blue sky will be very materially modified. Harper's.

A MUSICIAN'S ROMANCE.

Fanelli's Triumph, That Came After Thirty Years of Misery.

The life story of M. Fanelli, the composer of "Tableaux Symphoniques," reads like a romance. How easily it might have read like a tragedy this incident will show.

In his youth Fanelli had been courageous and ambitious, full of dreams of the music he was going to write for the world to hear and admire. But misfortune followed misfortune. He found it impossible to get a hearing for his compositions, and one by one his dreams began to fade.

Ten, twenty, thirty years went by. Fanelli, all hope crushed by continued adversity, was earning a pittance by playing night after night in an orchestra. None of his colleagues suspected his genius, for he kept his ambitions locked in his heart, as he kept the symphony, the masterpiece of his youth, locked in his desk.

Then one day Fanelli, in search of work as a copyist, called upon Gabriel Pierne, one of the great musical celebrities of Paris. Asked to show a sample of his writing, Fanelli produced the symphony, which he had brought with him. Pierne looked at it and saw that the writing was clear; then he saw something more, for he continued reading the music eagerly.

"Who is this Fanelli?" he asked at length.

"Myself," answered the composer. "I wrote it nearly thirty years ago."

"Leave this with me and come again in a few days."

So Fanelli went out, while Pierne, too enraptured to say goodby, stood by the window, poring over the music. A few days later he announced to the delighted but dazed Fanelli that he was going to produce the symphony at one of the Concerts Colonne.

On the eventful night Fanelli himself took a seat with the musicians. Tears came into his eyes as he heard the first strains of his work, neglected for so many years. He was not alone in his emotion, however, for as the music proceeded tears came into the eyes of the other musicians, the director, the audience. The music took them by storm. When it was over a burst of applause broke out, rose and swelled and would not die away. The composer alone sat quiet, as if in deep thought. Finally he got up, walked over to Pierne, and with a full heart expressed his gratitude.

"Again I thank you, M. Pierne," he said, taking his leave. "Good night, and a good appetite to you."

Pierne wondered at this strange farewell, but at last the meaning dawned on him. The applause that was still ringing through the hall had brought to Fanelli not only fame, but what for the moment was of even more importance to him, the promise of easier living. The composer of "Tableaux Symphoniques" had left the scene of his triumph to enjoy a much needed and rare treat—a good dinner.—Youth's Companion.

Self Conscious Greatness.

One day in the train—on one of Victor Hugo's journeys to or from Brussels—he happened to find himself in the company of two English ladies who spoke French. Hugo knew but one word of English—Christmas, which he always pronounced "Christ-mas." In the course of conversation these ladies observed that it must be inconvenient for him not to know English when he was passing through that country. To which the great man's reply was, "When England wants to talk with me she will learn my language." "From their astonishment at this answer," said Hugo in relating the story, "it was evident they did not know who I was."—Victor Hugo, His Life and Work, by A. F. Davidson.

Echoes From Horses' Skulls.

Those curious twists and turns superstitions take are to be found in the introduction of horses' skulls in or about the church buildings in England and Scotland, the reason alleged being to help the sound in church. This habit is unquestionably a relic of heathenism where an animal was sacrificed. Some years ago, when an old meeting house in Edinburgh was pulled down, the sounding board space above the pulpit was found to be filled with horses' skulls. In some parts of England there still exists the idea that if a horse's head is buried in a field there will be an echo.

Quite Frank About It.

"So you are going to marry Tom?" "You saw the announcement, didn't you?" "Yes, but—" "It wasn't a fake." "But, dearie I never thought that Tom would be your choice." "Tom ain't my choice. He's my chance. Have you any other questions to ask, darling?" Darling decided she hadn't.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Energy of Will.

Energy of will is the soul of every great character. Where it is there is resolute character; where it is not there is timidity, with effeminacy. As one man, noble of duty and full of energy, was once seen and the water from a bucket he had thrown there.

Craving.

"I always dress in blue," she is telling. "Well, you are a blue devil." "That? Well, you are a blue devil." "That? Well, you are a blue devil." Phil. Adolphus Record.

Opponents think that they refute us when they repeat their own opinions and take no notice of ours.—Goethe.

A LITERARY RIDDLE.

Who Was It Wrote the Tragedy of "Troilus and Cressida?"

Andrew Lang has just propounded a puzzle in circumstantial evidence. "Who," he asks, "wrote 'Troilus and Cressida'?" You may answer, as you please, Shakespeare or Bacon. If you answer Bacon, Andrew Lang comes back with the query, "Would Bacon have said that Aristotle lived before the Trojan war?" Bacon was too learned a man to make such a mistake which would be as bad as placing Abraham Lincoln among the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

If you answer Shakespeare, Andrew Lang shoots another query at you: "The author makes Ulysses and Achilles quote 'an author' and discuss a pretty long and obscure passage from that author, who was Plato. How could Shakespeare have read Plato?" For Shakespeare knew no Greek, and in his day Plato had not yet been translated into English.

It is quite conceivable that Shakespeare might imagine that Plato and Aristotle lived many centuries before Homer, but it is inconceivable that the erudite Bacon should fall into such an error.

Andrew Lang does not pretend to solve the riddle. He frankly says, "I give it up."—New York World.

RISKY POSTAL SERVICE.

In Russia the Government Opens All Suspicious Packages.

Our own service of mails is well organized. There is little doubt in the mind of the average person that when he posts a letter it will reach its destination.

But in other lands he might well fear for its safety. In Russia, for instance, any letter or parcel that is regarded with suspicion is immediately opened and its contents noted. A clever machine guns it up again, so that the recipient does not know that it has been tampered with.

In Lapland the mails are carried in sledges drawn by reindeer. In the wilds of the Caucasus the postman holds a post of danger. He must be protected against brigands and against the weather, for he often has to climb mountains more than 12,000 feet high.

Across Russia, which is apt to be marshy, has the buffalo post, and, of course, the progress made is very slow. Buffaloes are more powerful than oxen, and they are also used in Siberia for carrying the mail.

Other postmen in foreign lands are the swimming postman of India and the skilling letter carrier of the Andes. For the latter place the Argentine government specially imports Norwegians.—Exchange.

Mexico's Smoking Mountain.

In 1897 I climbed two volcanoes in Mexico, Popocatepetl, or "the smoking mountain," about 17,800 feet, and Orizaba, the former the most famous because within view from Mexico City and thus a source of especial pride and admiration to the inhabitants, who have been loath to believe that any other of their mountains could be higher. Popo has a really splendid crater, about half a mile across and 1,000 feet deep. The walls are generally vertical, but in one or two places it is possible to descend. When workers are engaged in collecting sulphur machinery is used to hoist them up and down. From Popo's summit there is a glorious prospect, not alone of the immense crater, but of the beautiful "White Lady" (Iztaccihuatl) reclining a thousand feet below, of Orizaba on the far horizon and of the charming valley of Mexico.—Annie S. Peck in Christian Herald.

Wellington's Integrity.

The Duke of Wellington was noted for his rigid integrity. Here is an instance which occurred in reference to his large estate. Some farm adjoining his lands was for sale, and his agent negotiated for him for the purchase. Having concluded the business, he went to the duke and told him he had made a capital bargain. "What do you mean?" asked the duke. "Why, your grace, I have got the farm for so much, and I know it to be worth at least so much more." "Are you quite sure of that?" "Quite sure, your grace, for I have carefully surveyed it." "Very well, then, pay the gentleman from me the balance between what you have already given and the real value of the estate."

Strong Circumstantial Evidence.

A young wife was in tears a few mornings ago when her mother called. When asked what was the matter she replied that her husband was out late the night before and had been to a drinking party.

"What makes you think he had been to a drinking party?" asked the mother.

"He came home," sobbed the young wife, "wearing a photograph horn for a hat."—Kansas City Star.

More Careful Now.

The young wife had given her husband a dance. "You've improved wonderfully, Jack," she said as they sat down. "Don't you remember how you used to tear my dress?" "Yes," he replied. "I wasn't paying them then."—Boston Transcript.

Barks.

The class in natural history being asked the difference between a dog and a tree, the head boy answered, "A tree is covered with bark, while a dog seems to be lined with it."

Noisy Sleep.

Hub gangrily—Here! What do you mean by waking me out of a sound sleep? Wife. Because the sound was too distressing. Boston Transcript.

Fate of Alcibiades.
The brilliant, witty and dissolute Alcibiades had one of the most extensive experiences in exile that ever fell to the lot of man. While in command of the Sicilian army he was recalled to stand trial for the destruction of the hosts of Hermias, an outrage that had taken place just before his departure. Knowing that his death had been determined on, he escaped to Sparta, where, by adopting the manners of the people, in strange contrast to his former style of luxury, he became immensely popular. He engaged in military operations against the Athenians and succeeded so well as to excite the envy of the Spartan leaders, who expelled him, whereupon he went to Persia and lived there with a magnificence that astonished the Persians themselves. He was recalled to Athens with the same capriciousness that marked his ostracism and was appointed commander in chief of all the Athenian forces; but, failing in an important expedition, he was again sent into exile and was finally assassinated in Persia.

A Fashion That Failed.
Charles II. attempted to put down the motability of fashion—in masculine costume. On Oct. 6, 1660, as Pepys records, the king declared in council "his resolution of setting a fashion in clothes, which he will never alter. It will be a vest. I know not just how, but it is to teach the nobility thrift and it will do good." Six days later Pepys sees the Duke of York try on the new "vest," which is again declared to be like the laws of the Medes and Persians. It was "a long cassock close to the body, of black cloth and plinked with white silk under it, and a coat over it, and the legs ruffled with black ribbon like a pigeon's leg." But Louis XIV. maliciously dressed all his footmen in this costume, and so did French noblemen, with the result that the English court very soon discarded the "unalterable" costume.

Horse Hatred.
Of all the domestic animals the horse is probably the most gentle, but there are exceptions. A California man had in his stable a fine thoroughbred horse, of which he made quite a pet. One day he went into the stable, and, stopping to pat his favorite steed, he was surprised when the horse, with a violent plunge, broke the halter and came at him with open mouth. At first he thought it was in fun, but he soon realized his mistake and hastily climbed up a ladder and yelled for help. On the arrival of his son the horse went back to the stall and immediately resumed its former gentleness to all but its owner. To him it remained a deadly foe until he was compelled to sell it. He never knew the reason for its sudden animosity.

The Sacred Codfish.
The sacred codfish carved in wood is to be seen on the walls of the hall of representatives in the statehouse at Boston. It occupies a place of honor between two classic pillars immediately opposite the desk of the speaker. Bostonians aver that this is the original sacred codfish of the old colony and that it has had a place in the halls of the lawmakers of Massachusetts for over 150 years. It is a relic of the assembly hall that gave way to the present statehouse. The following is the origin generally assigned to it:
One Captain John Welch of Boston was the creator and carver of the famous fish. In his time he was held to be a wood carver of no mean ability. He established himself in Dock square in 1747. A member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, Welch rose in time to its captaincy. He was called on to contribute to the decoration of the colonial assembly hall, and as at that period codfish was the colony's main article of export Welch conceived the notion of immortalizing it.—Harper's.

Youthful Authors.
Although it was not published until a year or two later, it is probable that Keats wrote his famous "Ode to Autumn" in his sixteenth year, and, indeed, all his five great odes, among the greatest in any language, before he attained legal manhood. He died at twenty-five, so that all the great masterpieces which came from his pen may be regarded as the production of a boy. Robert Burns wrote that scathing satire, "Holy Willie's Prayer," when he had barely passed his youth, and indeed, the whole of the poems in the famous Kilmaronock edition, a copy of which sold some little time since for twenty-five, were written before he was twenty-five. But even the precocity of Burns was put in the shade by that of Chatterton, who committed suicide in a fit of despair in a London garret when he was seventeen. He wrote the whole huge volume of the Rowley poems when he was a schoolboy at Bristol.

An Egyptian Delicacy.
Every country has its own little delicacies, and Egypt is famous for its kabobs. The kabob is broiled meat, but is broiled in so ridiculous a fashion as to be really funny. The peddler uses a little charcoal furnace, something like that in use by our plumbers. In it he keeps up a small but hot fire. Attached to the side of the furnace are a lot of iron skewers. When a customer approaches the hawk he takes a small piece of meat, mutton or goat, the latter being the most popular, cuts it with a sharp knife into a long ribbon, winds it around the skewer and places it upon the charcoal fire. Some of the drippings are collected and, with a little salt and spice, make a pleasant sauce for the kabob when it is done.

CHEERFUL MENDELSSOHN.

The Pioneer in Good Conducting and the Boy Joachim.
The art of good conducting began with Mendelssohn. The Leipzig Gewandhaus owes the greatness of its orchestra to him. He was a hard taskmaster, but, according to the words of Joachim, he earned the good will and respect of his men by his thorough knowledge, says the Music Magazine.
He was sane and rational, preferring a cheerful mood to gloom. Johann Kruse, formerly second violinist of the Joachim quartet, once told a little story of Mendelssohn's conducting in London, where he was always a favorite.
"Mendelssohn was to bring out the boy Joachim, then about twelve or fourteen years of age," he said. "At that time Joachim played Bach and Beethoven like a master. He began to rehearse the Mendelssohn concert with the orchestra when suddenly with boyish impetuosity he turned to the conductor and said, 'Herr Mendelssohn, I am sure there is a mistake in the orchestration here.'"
"The cheerful and sunny Mendelssohn replied, 'Well, this is a good time to correct it, my boy,' and the error was found and corrected."

Instinct in Birds.
In the stormy part of the year a steamer encountered rough weather, and, as often happens at such times, many sea gulls hovered near the ship and even came on board. One followed itself to be caught, and it was found that it had a fish bone stuck in the eye in such a position as not absolutely to destroy the sight, but penetrating an inch into the flesh of the bird and projecting an inch and a half. It might have had a fight with a fish or got transfixed seeking its prey. The doctor of the ship took the bird, extracted the bone, applied a soothing remedy to the wound and let it go. It flew away, but returned the next day, allowing itself to be caught. The doctor examined the wound, which was progressing favorably, applied more of the remedy and let the bird go a second time. It flew several times around the ship and then departed and returned no more.

A Real Disciplinarian.
The other night we heard a father speak thusly: "William, your mother tells me that you must have a dose of castor oil before retiring tonight. It is your bedtime now. Take your medicine and go to bed at once."
"But, papa, I don't want to take no castor oil."
"You must take it, and immediately."
"Aw, papa, how awfully!"
"William, if you don't take that medicine I'll put you right to bed this minute without giving you a drop of it."
William was so scared that he took it. That's the way to enforce discipline.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Eye Photographs.
An image impressed upon the retina of the eye remains there an appreciable time. This is the reason why a torch swung rapidly seems to be a circular flame. The sensibility of the retina is different at different times of the day. Every one has noticed how on waking in the morning and looking at the bright window, then closing the eyes, he will observe an impression or phantom of the window for an appreciable time after his eyes are closed.

PITTSBURG OUT FOR BUSINESS

With the birth of today, one minute after midnight the long steel Made-in-Pittsburgh train drew out of the Pittsburgh station on its 4,100 mile tour through 18 states to tell the nation of Pittsburgh's greatness. The moment marked the end of weeks of preparation which were feverish all day yesterday when the finishing touches were being made to the miniature exposition.
Seemingly samples of all the products made in the Pittsburgh district were to be seen in the booths when the train pulled out. Scores of manufacturers and other prominent citizens together with several newspaper men were aboard.

DESSING TAKEN TO THE HOSPITAL

John Dessing of Luella avenue, who was shot and wounded twice by his stepson, David Nutting, Saturday night, while engaged in a quarrel with his wife, was taken to the Monongahela hospital Monday. One of the shots struck Dessing in his side, and skirting the body lodge just beside beneath the skin on the opposite side. The other bullet lodged in Dessing's instep. His condition is not considered serious.

With the announcement of Dr. Henry W. The two other counties of the district—Lawrence and Beaver—are shot to pieces with insurgency, and it is expected that each of those two counties will also have full Washington Legislative tickets. The situation is warming up, and there will be some lively politics played before the campaign ends.

The contract for the painting of the Millsboro bridge a 288 foot span has been awarded by the controller and commissioners to Clyde H. Bennett of Clarksville at $11.60, the county to furnish the paint. The Clarksville bridge was let to William Greene of Washington at $50. It is a 288 foot span.

The Mighty Herring.
Few of us realize the vastness of the herring industry, yet it is highly important in many places, including New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec, British Columbia, Newfoundland, England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Russia, Germany, Holland, Belgium, France, Japan and Sicily. So long ago as 1720 some 2,000 of the principal gentlemen of Scotland formed a company for herring fishing, but were quickly disrupted, leaving a mournful lot of stockholders. Thirty years later the Prince of Wales became president or governor of a herring fishery, with a capital of £500,000. Efforts were made to learn the secrets of the Dutch methods of curing herrings, but the company soon collapsed. The spawning and feeding grounds of herrings have determined the location of cities, and in some instances the actual destiny of nations, and the fate of monarchs appearing have been involved in the herring industry.—London Answers.

Elected New Teacher.

For the purpose of electing a new school teacher the school board held a brief meeting Saturday night. Miss Ethel Gwynn of Jefferson, Greene county, was elected to fill the position of teacher in the sixth grade in the new building on Crest avenue.

G. A. Salt and H. C. Edithaph, among some autograph letters and historical documents sold recently were a series of letters by George Augustus Sala, a friend of W. P. Frith, including an amusing forecast of his own epitaph:

Passport to the North Pole.

A passport to the north pole was issued some years ago by the governor of the province of Tobolsk, which stretches along the Russian shores of the Arctic ocean. The official was approached by two men who had been engaged to proceed to the north with an English expedition then fitting out. Their petition was for a passport to the pole itself, but the governor pointed out that the pole was as likely to be in their home province as in any other, that it was extremely unlikely they would reach it and that if they did there were no police there to examine their credentials. At last, however, to satisfy them he ordered the issue of a document allowing them to pass without let or hindrance to the north pole.

The Morning Star.

The morning star, an iron ball studded with spikes and fastened by means of a chain to a short handle, was much used in medieval times as a military weapon. It was exceedingly formidable, for when thrown it could not easily be avoided or dodged, the chain permitting it to curve around the arm or over the shield. It was confessedly modeled after a common ractus which grows in every part of Italy.

young Nutting admitted doing the shooting himself after he had been released.
the probation officer from Morgantown, who was here looking up some other matters in addition to that of Nutting and his friend Chief Albright and some of the other officials located Nutting across the river. Late in the evening the officers watched the ferries and others detected a couple of young fellows making their way from the river bank toward town. They were immediately arrested, but when Chief Albright grabbed Nutting, the latter quick as a flash shoved his hand into his pocket and grasped his revolver. He was ordered to release the weapon and did so, but he also drew his dirk knife with his other hand.
Seeing it was no use Nutting did not put up a fight but he remarked to some of the other officers on the way to the lockup that they were lucky, evidently meaning that had opportunity offered there was likely to have been some shooting. The companion who happened to be with Nutting was not involved, and he was released. It is stated that the friend who was with him when the shooting occurred has also been arrested elsewhere and recommitted to Morgantown.

Young Pegg, who is under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court, was ordered to appear before the local committee this morning. He reported to Mrs. E. C. Niver one of the committee and he will be taken back to the detention rooms at Washington this afternoon by Constable Stabine, where he will later appear before the court to answer for his lapse. He was committed some time ago on a charge of stealing goods from farmers' vehicles that were hitched in town.

18-YEAR-OLD YOUTH STARTS WELL IN CRIME

Paroled Morganza In-

Shoots Up Man

SENT BACK TO SCHOOL

Armed With Revolver, 92
Cartridges and Murderous Knife

Eighteen years old; arrested on a charge of larceny and committed to the Industrial Training School at Morganza; served two years there and released on parole two months ago; stole a horse; shot and wounded a man in a row; rearrested with a revolver, 92 cartridges and a wicked looking knife in his possession; recommitted to Morganza for violating provisions of parole.

This is the career of David Nutting of Charleroi who was apprehended by Chief of Police Albright and his force, with the assistance of State Probation Officer Robert Elliott of the Industrial School at Morganza Monday evening. Young Nutting was taken back to Morganza early this morning by Officer Elliott.

When young Nutting became involved in the shooting affray Saturday night, in which his stepfather, John Dessing, was shot while abusing his wife—Nutting's mother—the officials of Morganza were after him for violating his parole in the commission of other offenses. It appears that some two weeks ago Nutting with Herbert Pegg, a lad 14 or 15 years old, who had also been paroled by the juvenile court for previous offenses, stole a horse belonging to John B. Michener of Charleroi. The animal was stabled near the garbage furnace on the Maple Creek road, and young Pegg, who had worked for Mr. Michener the previous day, in company with Nutting went to the stable on a Saturday night hitched up the horse to a buckboard wagon, and drove off on a jaunt. The horse was turned loose and abandoned at Finleyville, where it was recovered, after Mr. Michener had reported his loss to the district attorney and Detective William McCleary had been put on the trail.

Suspecting the two boys Mr. Michener swore out a warrant for their arrest, but before they were served young Pegg returned to his home, and admitted the theft of the horse to Mr. Michener. In the meantime young Nutting returned home in company with a friend whose name is not learned, but who was also out of Morganza on parole. It is believed that the two boys contemplated starting out on a tramp, for Nutting purchased a new 32-calibre revolver and 100 cartridges.

Incidentally the Saturday night shooting transpired. Young Nutting and his friend went to the latter's home on Luella avenue Saturday night where they found Nutting's stepfather, John Dessing, who is said to have come home drunk, abusing his mother. Taking a hand in the affair Nutting fired two shots at Dessing wounding him severely and then he and his companion fled. It was stated by Mrs. Dessing that the shots were fired by the stranger, but

Saturday night following numerous complaints, the police of Monessen arrested seven negroes, three women and four men at Wireton, all stated to belong to one of the most notorious gangs of panhandlers and holdups in the valley. Their method was to send a woman to accost an "easy mark" and try to get his wealth, the men standing in the background ready to attack the victim if he gave an alarm. At the police station most of the prisoners posted forfeits. A Slav identified a woman entered on the books as "Miss Philadelphia" as the person who had separated him from $21.00 in cash and several valuable papers. His pawer was returned on his promise not to enter a complaint.

G. O. P. CARRIES MAINE

Republican Governor
Elected by Over
3,000 Plurality

SUITS LOCAL PARTISANS

Maine turned back to the Republican column in the State election held there Monday, William T. Haines of Waterville being elected Governor over Governor Frederick W. Plaisted, his Democratic opponent, who sought a second term, while the Republicans regained one of the two Congressional districts lost to the Democrats two years ago.

The new Legislature is expected to have a small Republican majority, although returns are not sufficient to show whether former Congressman Edwin C. Burleigh, Republican, or Senator Obadiah Gardner, Democrat, will be chosen to the United States Senate for the term beginning next March.

Returns for Governor from 535 out of 634 election districts gave Haines, Republican, 589,187; Plaisted, Democrat, 585,487.

These returns show a Republican gain of 9 per cent and a Democratic loss of 9 per cent. If the same percentage is maintained throughout the State, Haines' election is indicated by about 3,750 plurality, compared with 3,660 given Plaisted in 1910.

The Congressmen elected are: First district, Asher C. Hinds of Portland, Republican; Second district, D. J. McGillicuddy of Lewiston, Democrat; Third district, Forest Goodwin of Skowhegan, Republican; Fourth district, Frank E. Guernsey of Dover, Republican. Hinds, McGillicuddy and Guernsey were re-elected.

HEBREW NEW YEAR COMES THIS WEEK

Year 5657 Will be Ushered in at Sundown Wednesday With Religious Services--Local Services in Bank of Charleroi Hall

The year, 5657, according to the ancient Hebrew calendar, will be ushered in at sundown on Wednesday. The season will be fittingly observed by local Hebrews, of which Charleroi has a large community. The orthodox branch will have services in the Bank of Charleroi Hall as has been their usual custom, while those who belong to the reformed element usually go to Pittsburgh or other points which have places of worship.

The two-day observance of Rosh Ha-Shannah or New Year, is one of the two most important holy days in the Hebrew calendar. Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, concludes the ten penitential days of which Rosh Ha-Shannah is the beginning. The Day of Atonement is the most important day in the calendar.

Exclusively

In the ferry fight between Van L. Speers and Leslie Woodward and Mark Bamford over the operation of ferries over the Monongahela river between Belle Vernon and Speers the defendants, Messrs Woodward and Bamford have filed their answer to Mr. Speers' bill in court at Washington. They deny that the lease under which the plaintiff operates a ferry gives him an exclusive right to operate at the point where the ferry is being operated. They admit that on July 22, 1912 they established a ferry and that with the exception of a few days when they were restrained by injunction they have been conducting a general ferry business.

On the Fayette county side they say their landing place is a few feet south of the plaintiff's landing place and on the Washington county side is a few feet north of the plaintiff's landing. It is denied though that they are in any manner interfering with the plaintiff in the operation of his ferry. They deny that under the charter of the Belle Vernon Bridge company the plaintiff had a right to operate a ferry at that point in question.

NEW ARMORY SITE IS READY

Specifications are expected in a few days at Monongahela for the excavation of the new armory building to be erected there by State aid. The engineers were there last week and made a complete survey of the property as well as its elevations and will prepare such plans and specifications as will be necessary to make the site available for the successful contractor to begin work on the building. This preliminary work is not expected to delay the building to any extent as the Armory Board will have to adopt the plans for this building first, and thenceforth of the way, bids will be asked from several contracting firms familiar with this class of work.

NIGHT SCHOOL OPEN TO ALL

Old and Young Can Attend
Evening Sessions in Pittsburg

Pittsburg is promised this winter the most extensive system of free evening schools in its history. Fifteen elementary schools are to be opened throughout the city, and in addition two evening high schools—one in the central city and one on the Northside. No entrance examination will be required for the elementary schools and the only age limit will be that applicants must be over 14. Fathers, brothers and sons may learn shop-work in joinery and cabinet making, wood turning and machine work; mothers, sisters and daughters may learn the newest methods in cooking with some knowledge of the chemistry of foods that may help in the battle against the high cost of living, while sewing and household art will be included in that course. Penmanship, commercial arithmetic and spelling may also be improved by courses at the elementary schools, while in the high schools shorthand, typewriting and bookkeeping will be taught.

Nor do these general courses exhaust the ambitious program. There will be courses in English for the foreign-born and in foreign languages for the English-speaking. Civil service aspirants can prepare for the examinations. In fact, the entire system has been devised to meet the practical needs of the people.

Director J. M. Berkey, who is in charge of the special schools and extension work, will have charge of these night schools.

NOVEL KICK ON TROLLEY LINE

Novel objections to an application for the extension of a charter will be laid before Corporation Clerk Whitworth of the State Department this week in Harrisburg in a hearing on the application of the Washington Traction company for permission to lay tracks for the operation of an extension of its lines in Washington. The proposed new line runs close to Washington and Jefferson College, and the officials of the institution object alleging that trolley cars running by will cause vibrations that will interfere with the operation of delicate instruments used in scientific research work in the college and render them practically useless.

The State Highway Department joins in the objection on the ground that the proposed line occupies space on State roads for which permission has not been obtained from the department as required by law. Attorneys for both sides will be heard.

Welcome Him Home
From Abroad

After the adjournment of lodge Monday night, Regent Otto Dorbritz and his staff of officers and members of Charleroi Council 1240, Royal Arcanum, repaired to the residence of their brother member, Joseph Allsopp, at 711 Washington avenue. The object of the visit was to surprise him on his 38th birthday and to congratulate him on his safe return from Europe, where he visited during the summer. They were given a hearty and royal welcome, and were entertained with card games, music, and a tasty luncheon. Mr. Allsopp is a past regent of the council, and greatly appreciated the visit of his fellow lodgemen.

Among those present were Otto Dorbritz, Chas. Feste, Gus Bricker, Elmer Sellers, J. Fries, J. B. Schaffer, R. O. Vetter, Wm. Davis, John McDonald, Jos. Davenport, Theo. Therodick, Geo. W. Risbeck, J. Albright, John Therodick and Joseph Schoener.

WORK AT UNIONTOWN

Recent activities of the West Penn Railways company, evinced in acquisition of new properties and the extension of lines are said to indicate the trolley system soon may become one of the largest in the United States. Holdings representing thousands of dollars recently have been acquired and the latest reports of activities are that plans are almost complete for an extension to West Newton. Contract has been awarded and construction begun on the 2-mile extension of the Phillips line to Uniontown.

According to reports from West Newton last week a party of surveyors is locating a line on the West Penn trunk from Hunker to West Newton. It is reported that connection will be made with the Yough division at Scott Haven and that it is a part of the extension decided upon two years ago.

G. W. Gates & Company of Fairchance, have been awarded the contract for the Phillips extension to Uniontown. Bond for $6,000 has been filed by the West Penn company in the condemnation proceeding.

CHARLEROI IS HONORED

Theodore J. Allen is One of the Nominees
Chosen

The cat has jumped, and the Washington party, according to the Washington Observer, will have put a full legislative ticket in the field. The Observer states in this morning's issues "the accredited representatives of the party in this county" have certified to the names of a roster of candidates for Assembly and they will be placed on the Washington or Roosevelt ticket. The candidates selected for Assembly are:

Theodore J. Allen, Charleroi.
David A. McCalmont, Robinson township.
T. B. H. Brownlee, Washington.

Just who these accredited representatives of the Washington party in the county are, the Observer does not state. It is probable, however, that former Congressman E. F. Acheson has a hand in their selection, and that he will be the guiding spirit of the campaign. Since his retirement from active newspaper work with the Observer Publishing company, he has been "lying low," and there is nothing to indicate on the surface just what part he proposes to play in this campaign. His well known opposition to the Republican organization in the State and county, as well as his profound political knowledge of State and county politics are qualities that will hardly permit him to remain passive in this campaign.

All three of the candidates selected for the Assembly on the Washington ticket are good men. Theodore J. Allen of Charleroi is a well known citizen and civil engineer and is highly respected. David A. McCalmont is a representative farmer of the northern part of the county, and T. B. H. Brownlee is a well known Washington citizen, who was chairman of the Keystone county committee two years ago. He is somewhat in the limelight by being a defendant on the attempted proceedings instituted by Hon. Edward Callaghan of Charleroi, on a charge of conspiracy and treason for, as Mr. Callaghan alleges, depriving the latter of his rights as a citizen in preventing his name from appearing on the official ballot as a Democratic candidate for sheriff.

It is well known that it was the intention to have the Roosevelt party in the county endorse the Republican candidate for Congress in the district—Hon. Charles Matthews—and the Republican candidates for Assembly, just as they have been endorsed in many of the other counties of the State, where there is a strong Roosevelt sentiment. With most of the Roosevelt followers, who are Republicans there is no resentment against the rest of the Republican ticket, and for that reason the endorsement of the other candidates has been readily effected in the most of the districts. That this procedure

It is to be hoped that the curb

market to be established on the hill

district of Charleroi will be as successful as the down town market.

While it may not reach the same pro-

portions, it can in a smaller way,

serve the same purpose. Not only

can the hill curb market be successful in the place selected, but other

spots convenient to the marketing

public can also be selected from time

to time.

While this additional market is

largely a matter of experiment, it

can be tried out in various ways un-

til the right system is finally established. The one thing needful is to get the producer and consumer to-

gether, and when this is done, the de-

tails of the best means of distribution will gradually adjust themselves. The curb market idea has

opened up a wide range of opportunities for many people to earn

some money by gardening and this

can be much or little as facilities

offer.

It is found everywhere that nothing that is raised on the farm need

be wasted, if only it can be gotten to

the people who have the money to pay for it and who want it. There

is money to be made by young and

old alike in gardening and Charleroi

has the market in which to sell any-

thing in this line.

AS OTHERS SEE HIM.

The action of William Flinn, the

accepted leader of the Roosevelt

forces in Pennsylvania, in refusing

to withdraw the Roosevelt electors

from the Republican ticket in this

State is regarded outside the State as

bit of petty political trickery which is

alienating thousands of independent

Republicans from the cause of the

Progressives. Speaking of these despicable tactics of Flinn, the Buf-

alo Express says:

The Washington party of Penn-

sylvania, which, be it known, is the

Bull Moose, has not appeared in any

especially favorable light since it

accepted Bill Flinn as leader, sponsored and guaranteed the course of the

Pittsburg contractor-boss with the

consent of his followers, in delaying,

not actually refusing, to withdraw

the Roosevelt electors from the Re-

publican ticket lays the third-term

question open to the severest criticism.

the precedent of the appropriation of the Progressives of the Republican name for their ticket in

California. It is reasonable to sup-
pose that a similar course will be attempted in the Keystone State.
Flinn evidently is going to fight to
the last ditch to retain on the Republican ticket the names of the 20
out of 38 electors who favor Roosevelt, unless the Republican party will
indorse his State ticket. In that
case, he would be glad to consent.
In fact, it is Flinn's plan to adopt
the organization of the Republican
party. This is shown in his over-
tures to Republican Congress and
Assembly candidates.

An independent Republican who
is supporting Roosevelt as a matter
of principle cannot approve of Flinn's methods. If political trick-ery must be resorted to in a so-called battle for reform, then it is simply a matter of there being small
choice in rotten apples. Mr. Flinn's
course is but a fair test of his real
motives.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The unusual spectacle was witnessed on Fifth street yesterday of a
small boy with a handful of salt in
a scrap of newspaper chasing up and
down with the avowed purpose of
catching sparrows. The little lad,
who was just in the first stages of
unsophisticated credulity was a victim of the practical jokes which his
elders see fit to inflict upon him and
his kind from time to time. He had
been told that the way to catch birds
was to put salt on their tails, and he
was endeavoring to carry out this
simple but somehow ineffective plan.

Approaching, as parrot he would grasp a pinch of salt in his thumb and forefinger, only to be disappointed
as the bird flew off.

"Why don't you catch them?" he
was asked.

"The blame things fly off before
I can get the salt on them," he ex-
claimed, at times almost ready to
cry with vexation over his failure.

"That is but another of the demonstrations that the child is father
to the man," remarked a bystander.
"That boy's credulity is no more un-
usual than that of a lot of his elders
in this town—I mean the men who
have tried to catch the Goddess of Fortune by sprinkling salt on the
train of her robes in the way of buying blue sky stocks in wild cat projects. I could name a round dozen
right now who have sprinkled salt
like this boy in just such impossible
propositions, and they have no more
to show for their chase than the little fellow here. Unhappy credulity is not a quality of the little child by any
means."

"I am somewhat amused over the
replies parents give when I ask
them the cause of the delinquency of
their children," said Robert Elliott,
State probation officer of the Industrial Training school at Morgantown,

who was in town Monday, looking
after some of the inmates who had
violated their paroles. "In the blanks
we have to fill out when a juvenile is committed to our institution is the cause of the delinquency."
"What in your opinion is the
cause of delinquency?"
"Invariably the answer will be:
"He (or she) would go in bad
company in spite of all I could do."
"This answer is always given,
even by the most incompetent or de-
praved parents. It simply goes to
show that the condition is univer-
sally recognized and that the only
salvation for society is not to have
any bad company in any community
to lead children and elders astray."

UP THE RIVER

Mrs. Margaret Nallon of Roscoe,
was taken to the Charleroi-Monessen
hospital last week for treatment.
She has been suffering with rheumatism.

John Okorn has on exhibition in the window of Abrams' clothing
store at Roscoe a very neat and comprehensive piece of handwork. It is a bird cage made of hard wood
and of a design that represents considerable labor. The scroll work was done by Mr. Okorn, who is a resident of Roscoe in the winter evenings using several thousand saws in the operation.

Morning Star Council No. 29, Jr.
Order United American Mechanics,
of Fayette City, initiated a large
class of candidates Monday evening.
One of the features of the evening
was the conferring of the Oriental degree. Visitors were present from Donora, Monessen and other points.

The Fayette City school opened
Monday of last week with an enrollment of 426.

The mining hamlet of Fairhope,
where the Naomi mines are located,
near Fayette City, is experiencing quite a boom. A number of lots have been sold recently and several houses are either proposed or are in the course of erection.

Lynn's Grove the popular picnic
grove near Belle Vernon, was badly damaged by the wind storms that prevailed last week. A number of trees were overturned and limbs and branches were blown off from others.

The total receipts of the outing of
the Fayette City Business Men to Olympic Park, near McKeesport on the steamer Sunshine August 28
were $446.77. The expenses were $393.65, leaving a balance of $53.12.
This with a balance of the excursion
of the previous year of $117.31, gives
the association a surplus of $170.44.
It is rumored that the association
will give a big banquet during the winter.

On Monday morning of last week
at the beginning of the public school
term, Sergt. P. C. Grace Camp, No.
265 Sons of Veterans, assisted by
Gen. G. D. Bayard Post, No. 178, Grand Army of the Republic, gave
to the five schools in that vicinity,
including Belle Vernon, North Belle Vernon, La Grange, Gibsonton and Spears, a new flag of the regulation
U. S. Army storm pattern.

Arthur Jones of Belle Vernon was arrested last week charged with selling liquor illegally. In default of $500
bail he was committed to jail at Uniontown.

Claiming that he was assaulted by
the conductor after he had paid his fare from Roscoe to Woods Run, Andy Melessa last week filed a suit
against the Pennsylvania Railroad
Co. for $5,000 damages.

Rev. Bevier is still working hard to make the Bible conference to be held at Belle Vernon in the Methodist Episcopal church on September 23, to 27, a success. Dr. C. I.
Schofield, the noted veteran Bible
teacher and editor of the Scofield
Bible, will be there and Rev. Lewis
S. and Mrs. Shafer will assist him.
Invitations have been issued to the towns nearby to join. There will be three sessions each day, morning,
afternoon and evening.

A linen shower was tendered one night last week to Miss Hattie Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Johnston of Gibsonton, who will soon become the bride of Oscar Carson, of Charleroi. There were about 25
guests present and all enjoyed the evening's musical program. Light refreshments were served.

Beginning Monday evening Rev.
Nicholas Ward is delivering a series of lectures at St. Thomas Catholic church in Coal Center. The lectures

Two mine shafts are being sunk
and other work started at the old

side of river the Alicia Coal company is erecting 200 ovens in addition to the 200 they already have in oper-

Rev. Gray the pastor of the Roscoe
M. E. church, is still at the hospital in Pittsburgh taking treatment and so far there is but little improvement
if any at all.

East Pike Run rose very rapidly
Saturday evening and people from Coal Centre began to go to the top of the hill to see whether or not Granville would be swept away.
Some eight or ten houses had water
on the first floor. The creek rose so rapidly that scarcely anything was gotten out of the homes before they were flooded. The small covered bridge in Daisytown known as Hand's bridge was washed away.

At a meeting of the schoolboard of East Pike Run township Monday evening Miss Edna Young, who had been assigned to teach in the Phillipsburg school was transferred to the Republican school where she will teach the sixth grade pupils. This change was made necessary by the crowded condition of the Republican school where another room was formed to properly care for the children enrolled. The vacancy at the Phillipsburg school will be filled this week.

Mrs. Mollie Flemming of California will have a kindergarten school
in the old Able building near the Methodist church. The school opened Monday. Mrs. Flemming spent the summer at Chautauque taking a special course in kindergarten work.

LEGEND OF JERUSALEM.

Charity of Two Brothers Led to the Founding of the Temple.

Once, so runs the legend, there lived
in far Judean hills two affectionate brothers tilling a common farm together. One had a wife and a houseful of children; the other was a lonely
man. One night in the harvest time
the older brother said to his wife: "My brother is a lonely man. I will go out and more some of the sheaves from my side of the field over on his so that when he sees them in the morning his heart will be cheered by the abundant." And he did.

That same night the other brother
said to his workmen: "My brother has a houseful and many mouths to fill. I am alone and do not need all this wealth. I will go and move some of my sheaves over on his field so that he shall rejoice in the morning when he sees how great is his store." And he did.

And they did it that night and the next in the sheltering dark. But on the third night the moon came out as they met face to face, each with his arms filled with sheaves. On that spot
says the legend, was built the temple
of Jerusalem, for it was esteemed that there earth came nearest heaven.—Out look.

Novel Entertainment of 1862.

What was then considered a decided novelty in theatrical display of the capital occurred during the week of May 26-31, 1862, when an entertainment was given at the Washington
theater, on Eleventh street just south
of Pennsylvania avenue, consisting of Dr. Colton's lecture on health, varied and punctuated by the administration of "hugging gas," then regarded as a marvel of scientific discovery. Dr. Colton's advertisement read as follows:
with reference to his exhibition for the special benefit of ladies:

"Twelve ladies will inhale the gas,
and none allowed but the most select previous to the exhibition Dr. Colton will deliver a brief lecture on 'How to Preserve the Health.'—Exchange.

During Change of Life—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made
Her a Well Woman.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express
what I went through during the change
of life before I tried

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition
I could not keep still.
My limbs were cold,
I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read

one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it has worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life.
If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. MARION SWEET GRE-ATON, No. 1 Jefferson St., Natick, Mass.

Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence.
Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Climate and the Color of Cities. It is estimated by meteorologists that the heat irradiated constantly in the atmosphere by the combustion of carbon modifies little by little the climate of cities and surrounding districts. It is said that 19,000,000 tons of carbon is the average yearly weight burned in cities the size of London and New York. It is also pointed out that the color of cities is changed according to the amount of carbon burned. Confirmation of these facts is offered in historical description of cities. Paris being referred to by one historian of ancient times as a "city of red," while in this day certain Italian cities are described as "violet." Meteorologists prophesy that when our west is as thickly settled as central Europe our clear sweep of blue sky will be very materially modified. Harper's.

A MUSICIAN'S ROMANCE.

Fanelli's Triumph, That Came After Thirty Years of Misery.

The life story of M. Fanelli, the composer of "Tableaux Symphoniques," reads like a romance. How easily it might have read like a tragedy this incident will show.

In his youth Fanelli had been courageous and ambitious, full of dreams of the music he was going to write for the world to hear and admire. But misfortune followed misfortune. He found it impossible to get a hearing for his compositions, and one by one his dreams began to fade.

Ten, twenty, thirty years went by. Fanelli, all hope crushed by continued adversity, was earning a pittance by playing night after night in an orchestra. None of his colleagues suspected his genius, for he kept his ambitions locked in his heart, as he kept the symphony, the masterpiece of his youth, locked in his desk.

Then one day Fanelli, in search of work as a copyist, called upon Gabriel Pierre, one of the great musical celebrities of Paris. Asked to show a sample of his writing, Fanelli produced the symphony, which he had brought with him.

That the writing was clear, then he saw something more, for he continued reading the music eagerly.

"Who is this Fanelli?" he asked at length.

"Myself," answered the composer. "I wrote it nearly thirty years ago."

"Leave this with me and come again in a few days."

So Fanelli went out, while Pierre, too

enraptured to say goodbye, stood by the window, poring over the music. A few days later he announced to the delighted but dazed Fanelli that he was going to produce the symphony at one of the Concerts Colonne.

On the eventful night Fanelli himself took a seat with the musicians. Tears came into his eyes as he heard the first strains of his work, neglected for so many years. He was not alone in his emotion, however, for as the music proceeded tears came into the eyes of the other musicians, the director, the audience. The music took them by storm. When it was over a burst of applause broke out, rose and swelled and would not die away. The composer alone sat quiet, as if in deep thought. Finally he got up, walked over to Pierre, and with a full heart expressed his gratitude.

"Again I thank you, M. Pierre," he said, taking his leave. "Good night, and a good appetite to you."

Pierre wondered at this strange farewell, but at last the meaning dawned on him. The applause that was still ringing through the hall had brought to Fanelli not only fame, but what for the moment was of even more importance to him, the promise of easier living. The composer of "Tableaux Symphoniques" had left the scene of his triumph to enjoy a much needed and rare treat—a good dinner.—Youth's Companion.

Self Conscious Greatness.

One day in the train—on one of Victor Hugo's journeys to or from Brussels—he happened to find himself in the company of two English ladies who spoke French. Hugo knew but one word of English—Christmas, which he always pronounced "Christ-mas." In the course of conversation these ladies observed that it must be inconvenient for him not to know English when he was passing through that country. To which the great man's reply was: "When England wants to talk with me she will learn my language." "From their astonishment at this answer," said Hugo in relating the story, "it was evident they did not know who I was."—Victor Hugo, His Life and Work, by A. F. Davidson.

Echoes From Horses' Skulls.

Those curious twists and turns superstitions take are to be found in the introduction of horses' skulls in or about the church buildings in England and Scotland, the reason alleged being to help the sound in church. This habit is unquestionably a relic of heathenism where an animal was sacrificed. Some years ago, when an old meeting house in Edinburgh was pulled down, the sounding board space above the pulpit was found to be filled with horses' skulls. In some parts of England there still exists the idea that if a horse's head is buried in a field there will be an echo.

Quite Frank About It.

"So you are going to marry Tom?" "You saw the announcement, didn't you?" "Yes, but—" "It wasn't a fake." "But, dearie—I never thought that Tom would be your choice." "Tom ain't my choice. He's my chance. Have you any other questions to ask, darling?" Darling decided she hadn't.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Energy of Will.

Energy of will is the soul of every great character. Where it is there is resolute character; where it is not there is faintness, with effeminacy, despondency, neglect of duty and failure. "The strong man and the water-fall" are a proverbial channel their

A LITERARY RIDDLE.

Who Was It Wrote the Tragedy of "Troilus and Cressida?"

A puzzle in circumstantial evidence. "Who," he asks, "wrote 'Troilus and Cressida?'" You may answer, as you please, Shakespeare or Bacon. If you answer Bacon, Andrew Lang comes back with the query: "Would Bacon have said that Aristotle lived before the Trojan war?" Bacon was too learned a man to make such a mistake, which would be as bad as placing Abraham Lincoln among the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

If you answer Shakespeare, Andrew Lang shoots another query at you: "The author makes 'Clytemnestra' and 'Achilles' quote 'an author' and discuss a pretty long and strange passage from that author, who was Plato. How could Shakespeare have read Plato?" For Shakespeare knew no Greek, and in his day Plato had not yet been translated into English.

It is quite conceivable that Shakespeare might imagine that Plato and Aristotle lived many centuries before Homer, but it is inconceivable that the erudite Bacon should fall into such an error.

Andrew Lang does not pretend to solve the riddle. He frankly says, "I give it up."—New York World.

RISKY POSTAL SERVICE.

In Russia the Government Opens All Suspicious Packages.

Our own service of mails is well organized. There is little doubt in the mind of the average person that when he posts a letter it will reach its destination.

But in other lands he might well fear for its safety. In Russia, for instance, any letter or parcel that is regarded with suspicion is immediately opened and its contents noted. A clever machine guns it up again, so that the recipient does not know that it has been tampered with.

In Lapland the mails are carried in sledges drawn by reindeer. In the wilds of the Caucasus the postman holds a post of danger. He must be protected against brigands and against the weather, for he often has to climb mountains more than 12,000 feet high. Asiatic Russia, which is apt to be marshy, has the buffalo post, and, of course, the progress made is very slow. Buffaloes are more powerful than oxen, and they are also used in Siberia for carrying the mail.

Other postmen in foreign lands are the swimming postman of India and the skilling letter carrier of the Andes. For the latter place the Argentine government specially imports Norwegians.—Exchange.

Mexico's Smoking Mountain.

In 1897 I climbed two volcanoes in Mexico, Popocatepetl, or "the smoking mountain," about 17,800 feet, and Orizaba, the former the most famous because within view from Mexico City and thus a source of especial pride and admiration to the inhabitants, who have been loath to believe that any other of their mountains could be higher. Popo has a really splendid crater, about half a mile across and 1,000 feet deep. The walls are generally vertical, but in one or two places it is possible to descend. When workers are engaged in collecting sulphur machinery is used to hoist them up and down. From Popo's summit there is a glorious prospect, not alone of the immense crater, but of the beautiful "White Lady," Iztaccihuatl, reclining a thousand feet below, of Orizaba on the far horizon and of the charming valley of Mexico.—Annie S. Peck in Christian Herald.

Wellington's Integrity.

The Duke of Wellington was noted for his rigid integrity. Here is an instance which occurred in reference to his large estate. Some farm adjoining his lands was for sale, and his agent negotiated for him for the purchase. Having concluded the business, he went to the duke and told him he had made a capital bargain. "What do you mean?" asked the duke. "Why, your grace, I have got the farm for so much, and I know it to be worth at least so much more." "Are you quite sure of that?" "Quite sure, your grace, for I have carefully surveyed it." "Very well, then; pay the gentleman from me the balance between what you have already given and the real value of the estate."

Strong Circumstantial Evidence.

A young wife was in tears a few mornings ago when her mother called. When asked what was the matter she replied that her husband was out late the night before and had been to a drinking party.

"What makes you think he had been to a drinking party?" asked the mother.

"He came home," sobbed the young wife, "wearing a photograph horn for a hat."—Kansas City Star.

More Careful Now.

The young wife had given her husband a dance. "You're improved wonderfully, Jack," she said as they sat down. "Don't you remember how you used to tear my dress?" "Yes," he replied, "I wasn't buying them then."—Boston Transcript.

Barks.

The class in natural history being asked the difference between a dog and a tree, the head boy answered, "A tree is covered with bark, while a dog seems to be lined with it."

CHEERFUL MENDELSSOHN.

The Pioneer in Good Conducting and the Boy Joachim.

The art of good conducting began with Mendelssohn. The Leipzig Gewandhaus owes the greatness of its orchestra to him. He was a hard taskmaster, but according to the words of Joachim, he earned the good will and respect of his men by his thorough knowledge, says the Music Magazine.

He was sane and rational, preferring a cheerful mood to gloom. Johann Kruse, formerly second violinist of the Joachim quartet, once told a little story of Mendelssohn's conducting in London, where he was always a favorite.

"Mendelssohn was to bring out the boy Joachim, then about twelve or fourteen years of age," he said. "At that time Joachim played Bach and Beethoven like a master. He began to rehearse the Mendelssohn concert with the orchestra when suddenly with boyish impetuosity he turned to the conductor and said, 'Herr Mendelssohn, I am sure there is a mistake in the orchestration here.'"

"The cheerful and sunny Mendelssohn replied, 'Well, this is a good time to correct it, my boy,' and the error was found and corrected."

Instinct in Birds.

In the stormy part of the year a steamer encountered rough weather, and, as often happens at such times, many sea gulls hovered near the ship and even came on board. One allowed itself to be caught, and it was found that it had a fish bone stuck in the eye in such a position as not absolutely to destroy the sight, but penetrating an inch into the flesh of the bird and projecting an inch and a half. It might have had a fight with a fish or got transfixed seeking its prey. The doctor of the ship took the bird, extracted the bone, applied a soothing remedy to the wound and let it go. It flew away, but returned the next day, allowing itself to be caught. The doctor examined the wound, which was progressing favorably, applied more of the remedy and let the bird go a second time. It flew several times around the ship and then departed and returned no more.

A Real Disciplinarian.

The other night we heard a father speak thusly: "William, your mother tells me that you must have a dose of castor oil before retiring tonight. It is your bedtime now. Take your medicine and go to bed at once."

"But, papa, I don't want to take no castor oil."

"You must take it, and immediately."

"Aw, papa, I don't want to."

"William, if you don't take that medicine I'll put you to bed this minute without giving you a drop of it."

William was so scared that he took it. That's the way to enforce discipline.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Eye Photographs.

An image impressed upon the retina of the eye remains there an appreciable time after the object has been removed.

A torch swung rapidly seems to be a circular flame. The sensibility of the retina is different at different times of the day. Every one has noticed how on waking in the morning and looking at the bright window, then closing the eyes, he will observe an impression or phantom of the window for an appreciable time after his eyes are closed.

PITTSBURG OUT FOR BUSINESS

With the birth of today, one minute after midnight the long steel Made-in-Pittsburgh train drew out of the Pittsburgh station on its 4,100 mile tour through 18 states to tell the nation of Pittsburgh's greatness. The moment marked the end of weeks of preparation which were feverish all day yesterday when the finishing touches were being made to the miniature exposition.

Seemingly samples of all the products made in the Pittsburgh district were to be seen in the booths when the train pulled out. Scores of manufacturers and other prominent citizens together with several newspaper men were aboard.

DESSING TAKEN TO THE HOSPITAL

John Dessing of Luella avenue, who was shot and wounded twice by his stepson, David Nutting, Saturday night, while engaged in a quarrel with his wife, was taken to the Monongahela hospital Monday. One of the shots struck Dessing in his side, and skirting the body lodged just beside beneath the skin on the opposite side. The other bullet lodged in Dessing's instep. His condition is not considered serious.

With the announcement of Dr. Henry W. Temple of Washington as a candidate for Congress on the Washington ticket in the Twenty-fourth district, and a full Legislative slate in the Washington county a hot fight is indicated. The two other counties of the district—Lawrence and Beaver—are shot to pieces with insurgency, and it is expected that each of those two counties will also have full Washington Legislative tickets. The situation is warming up, and there will be some lively politics played before the campaign ends.

GAVE CONTRACT TO PAINT BRIDGE

The contract for the painting of the Millsboro bridge, a 288 foot span has been awarded by the controller and commissioners to Clyde H. Bennett of Clarksville at $41.60, the county to furnish the paint. The Clarksville bridge was let to William Greene of Washington at $50. It is a 288 foot span.

The Mighty Herring.

Few of us realize the vastness of the herring industry, yet it is highly important in many places, including New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec, British Columbia, Newfoundland, England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Russia, Germany, Holland, Belgium, France, Japan and Siberia. So long ago as 1720 some 2,000 of the principal gentlemen of Scotland formed a company for herring fishing, but were quickly disrupted, leaving a monstrous lot of stockholders. Thirty years later the Prince of Wales became president or governor of a herring fishery, with a capital of £500,000. Efforts were made to learn the secrets of the Dutch methods of curing herrings, but the company collapsed. The spawning and feeding grounds of herrings have determined the location of cities, and in several instances the actual destiny of nations and the fate of monarchs appear to have been determined by the herring.—London Answers.

G. A. Sals and H's Epitaph.

Among some autograph letters and historical documents sold recently were a series of eight letters by George Augustus Sals addressed to W. P. Fith, including an amusing forecast of his own epitaph:

When I die it may be written on my tomb, He wrote the worst burlesque ever acted; He abused the constituted authorities and

with malice prepense

maligned

The Royal Academy of Arts.

He did the things he ought not to have done and never did.

Those he should have done.

He was stout in person and bloated in countenance, and

He never came to dinner when he was asked.

But when he "dropped in" unasked was no doubt better company than many invited guests are!

Passport to the North Pole.

A passport to the north pole was issued some years ago by the governor of the province of Tobolsk, which stretches along the Russian shores of the Arctic ocean. The official was approached by two men who had been engaged to proceed to the north with an English expedition then fitting out. Their petition was for a passport to the pole itself, but the governor pointed out that the pole was as likely to be in their home province as in any other, that it was extremely unlikely they would reach it and that if they did there were no police there to examine their credentials. At last, however, to satisfy them he ordered the issue of a document allowing them to pass without let or hindrance to the north pole.

The Morning Star.

The morning star, an iron ball studded with spikes and fastened by means of a chain to a short handle, was used by the Romans as a military weapon. It was exceedingly formidable, for when thrown it could not easily be avoided or dodged, the chain permitting it to curve around the arm or over the shield. It was confessedly modeled after a common rattle which grows in every part of Italy.

young Nutting admitted doing the shooting himself after he had been released.

the probation officer from Morganza, who was here looking up some other matters in addition to that of Nutting and his friend Chief Albright and some of the other officials located Nutting across the river. Late in the evening the officers watched the ferries and Chief Albright, Officers Elliott and others detected a couple of young fellows making their way from the river bank toward town. They were immediately arrested, but when Chief Albright grabbed Nutting, the latter quick as a flash shoved his hand into his pocket and grasped his revolver. He was ordered to release the weapon and did so, but he also drew his dirk knife with his other hand.

Seeing it was no use Nutting did not put up a fight but he remarked to some of the other officers on the way to the lockup that they were lucky, evidently meaning that had opportunity offered there was likely to have been some shooting. The companion who happened to be with Nutting was not involved, and he was released. It is stated that the friend who was with him when the shooting occurred has also been arrested elsewhere and recommitted to Morganza.

Young Pegg, who is under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court, was ordered to appear before the local committee this morning. He reported to Mrs. E. C. Niver one of the committee and he will be taken back to the detention rooms at Washington this afternoon by Constable Stabine, where he will later appear before the court to answer for his lapse. He was committed some time ago on a charge of stealing goods from farmers' vehicles that were hitched in town.
